Hörmann Buys Flexon, Inc.

On September 23, 2007, the Hörmann Group acquired the business operations of Flexon, Inc., Leetsdale, Pennsylvania.

“This new partnership means that Flexon, Inc. customers will have access to the best technology available in the world,” says Christoph Hörmann, president and owner of the Hörmann group of companies.

Hörmann is the largest manufacturer of residential and commercial doors and openers as well as loading dock equipment outside the United States and is known as a worldwide leader in door safety and technology. With more than 5,500 employees worldwide, Hörmann has operations in more than 40 countries and achieves sales of over 1.4 billion US$.

Flexon, Inc., is a worldwide known manufacturer of industrial doors and loading dock equipment including impact traffic doors, high performance, high-speed roll-up doors; as well as loading dock seals, shelters, screens and levelers. The company has been making impact doors since 1979 and high-speed roll-up doors since 1987. Manufacturing will continue in Leetsdale, with the ability to provide Flexon, Inc. customers with a broader range of products. The company has now been renamed to Hörmann Flexon LLC.

Mark Permigiani will continue to serve as the vice president of manufacturing, and Patrick Boyle will continue serving as the vice president of operations. Permigiani has been with Flexon, Inc. since 1980, with expertise in management, engineering and manufacturing. Boyle has expertise in purchasing and operations, and has been with Flexon, Inc. since 1985. Both are looking forward to adding to the continuous growth of Hörmann Flexon LLC.
